1 P R O C E E D I N G S

2 THE COURT: Be seated please.

3 MR. HENES: Good morning, Your Honor. Jon Henes,
4 Kirkland & Ellis on behalf of Ion. Your Honor, we have a 5 relatively long agenda today, but all uncontested. We have --

6 THE COURT: That means it's a relatively short agenda.

7 MR. HENES: Relatively short?

8 THE COURT: If it's long but uncontested, it's likely 9 short.

10 MR. HENES: That's right. That would be good. One 11 matter, as you know, is adjourned, which is the DIP. What I'd 12 like to do is just give you a quick update on where we are.

13 THE COURT: Fine.

14 MR. HENES: And then my colleague, Mr. Sussberg will 15 get up to handle the agenda. As you know, Your Honor, at the 16 first day hearing we listened very carefully to what you had to 17 say. And I think the lenders, more importantly, listened very 18 carefully to what you had to say.

19 After that hearing we sat down with the group that was 20 represented by Ropes & Gray and provided them with diligence, 21 and they came back to us with a commitment for a DIP. After 22 receiving that, the group represented by Akin Gump came back 23 with a modified proposal to their DIP. And I believe that they 24 modified their DIP to take into account the concerns that Your 25 Honor had.

1 So we now have two DIP proposals on the table. We 2 actually have a board meeting today to go through that and to 3 select one, which we will then be filing a supplemental motion 4 so we can put the terms out of the DIP, which will be 5 significantly better than the DIP that was put in front of you 6 on the first day. And then we have the hearing for July 1st.

7 In terms of the business, the business is -- it's 8 puttering along. I think the 25 million dollar interim DIP was 9 very helpful, because those content deals that we talked about, 10 we're at least having those conversations now. There still is 11 a sense of uncertainty out there, so we are hopeful, on July 12 1st, we can get the final DIP approved, which we think really 13 will help move things forward.

14 The final thing that I'll say about the DIP, because I 15 don't want to give away, obviously, too much information. The 16 DIP proposals are relatively close. There's really not that 17 many differences between the two now, which the company looks 18 at as a very good thing. Both, obviously, you have two parties 19 now that want to give the company money. That's always a good 20 position to be in. And there's actually a third group kind of 21 floating around that's at least talked about potentially 22 throwing in a proposal, which we'll see if that occurs or not.

23 THE COURT: Is there confidentiality as to these 24 proposals, or is there a sharing of information which has 25 resulted in bringing them so close together?

1 MR. HENES: Neither party wanted us to actually share
2 the proposals in writing. But we have --

3 THE COURT: With each other?

4 MR. HENES: -- with each other. But we have talked to 5 both parties, and we have given them a sense of where they are 6 and what they need to do better to get to the point where the 7 debtor would select them as the DIP.

8 THE COURT: Is there an auction process or not?

9 MR. HENES: I wouldn't call it an official auction 10 process. We're moving both sides as -- I know that you have 11 experience, and I'm talking to both sides and pushing both 12 sides towards the middle and toward what really will work for 13 the company. But there's not an auction process where we've 14 brought both parties into the same room. I'm not sure that 15 they would get into the same room, so that would be something 16 that would be challenging for the company.

17 THE COURT: I'm not proposing that you do anything
18 different from what you're doing, I was just trying to explore 19 if this was a process that was being managed with a view toward 20 obtaining the best possible proposal?

21 MR. HENES: That's exactly where we are headed, Your 22 Honor.

23 THE COURT: Fine.

24 MR. HENES: So with that, Your Honor -- one other just 25 update. I believe it was yesterday, it may have been the day

1 before, we found out from the United States Trustee's Office
2 that a creditors' committee has now been appointed. And Ms.
3 Levine from Lowenstein Sandler is here. We spoke last night.
4 And we look forward to working with the creditors' committee 5 moving forward.

6 The creditors' committee, I believe, has three members 7 right now: M&T Bank, which is actually the trustee for the 8 second lien holders. I believe that their view is that they're 9 completely underwater, and as a result a really unsecured
10 creditor, not a secured creditor. And then CBS and U.S. Bank.
11 U.S. Bank is the trustee for the unsecured note holders.

12 THE COURT: Let me just ask counsel for the U.S.
13 Trustee whether or not the U.S. Trustee's Office has 14 determined, for purposes of committee composition, that M&T is, 15 in fact, a proper representative of unsecured creditors?

16 MS. GOLDEN: Good morning, Your Honor. Susan Golden 17 on behalf of the United States Trustee. Given the claim form, 18 when it came in, and our discussions, our preliminary 19 discussions were that they were. However, afterwards we had 20 discussed with counsel and also the U.S. Trustee is taking it 21 under advisement to see whether or not it actually is 22 appropriate. Just for Your Honor's edification, we do have 23 another acceptance form from another unsecured creditor. But 24 the U.S. Trustee is aware of the situation and a decision will 25 be made promptly on the M&T issue.

1 THE COURT: Fine.

2 MR. HENES: Your Honor, unless you have any questions 3 for me or would like an update on anything else going on in the 4 case, I don't have anything else, and I would sit down and let 5 Mr. Sussberg --

6 THE COURT: It looks like Ms. Levine is interested in 7 introducing herself and saying a few words.

8 MR. HENES: Yes. Thank you, Your Honor.

9 MS. LEVINE: Good morning, Your Honor. Sharon Levine
10 and Suzanne Iazzetta from Lowenstein Sandler, proposed counsel 11 to the committee. We were retained last night after 6, and 12 this morning is our first appearance in the case. The concern 13 that we have with the abbreviated deadline with regard to the 14 DIP is that although Your Honor -- and we appreciate Your 15 Honor's inquiry at the first day hearing -- from what we've 16 been able to glean from the members of our committee, there's 17 been substantial progress with regard to moving the DIP from 18 basically the driver that would form a plan of reorganization 19 in this case and dictate the outcome of this case on day one, 20 to a process that may be more open.

21 The bottom line is, because of confidentiality issues
22 and because of our short tenure in the case, we have no idea 23 what these new DIP proposals may turn out to be. We're first 24 retaining a financial advisor, hopefully this afternoon. And 25 we have some real concerns, not only with the fact that we may

1 now see a DIP proposal that doesn't have a plan term sheet, but 2 with some of the terms that seem to be in the DIP credit 3 agreement that may make their way through some of these other 4 DIP proposals.

5 For example, in the DIP credit agreement there's a cap 6 on content provider contracts which limits the terms of those 7 contracts to three years and four million dollars. And our 8 understanding from some of the content providers is that 9 they're actually in the process of negotiating deals with the 10 debtor right now, that would exceed those limits. And then 11 those contracts, to the extent that they are entered into, 12 would have to then be approved by the lenders.

13 Our concern here is one of whether or not, in addition 14 to appropriate DIP terms, we have a DIP agreement that allows 15 this business to do what it needs to do to operate in the 16 ordinary course; whether or not the DIP lenders are exercising 17 a little bit too much control; and whether or not the 18 indemnification provisions that seem to be in the RSA, the 19 restructuring agreement as proposed, make their way into the 20 next DIP order, which means that if we have potentially -- and 21 we're not saying that we do, we're brand new -- but if we have 22 potentially the inability of management to do what it needs to 23 do, and the lenders asserted control over the process, and 24 there's issues that come out of that, then we have 25 indemnifications that protect those parties ahead of the 1 unsecured creditors from those outcomes.

2 So those types of issues are issues that we want to 3 have the opportunity to explore as we move through the process.
4 And then there's the basic issues that Your Honor sees in every 5 DIP. I mean, they're taking liens on avoidance actions, claims 6 on avoidance actions; the interest rate, while LIBOR plus 12 is 7 on the high end of what we've seen recently in a number of 8 cases, that high end seems to be in cases where there are a lot 9 of overseas assets with rough collateral. And given the short 10 term of this DIP and the costs and the fees associated with 11 this DIP, the actual imputed cost of the money seems to be 12 potentially above what even a tough market DIP would be. We 13 would like to talk to our financial advisor about that and see 14 if we can explore those issues.

15 And in addition to that, Your Honor, we're not sure 16 exactly where the concern is coming from that the debtors are 17 expressing. Because what we're hearing from the content 18 providers, and admittedly it's been a short period of time, is 19 that they're anxiously having these negotiations, but they want 20 to make sure, not that it's a fast DIP, but that it's an 21 appropriate DIP, so that they can enter into the types of 22 contracts that they believe the market requires that they enter 23 into at this time.

24 So with that, we would ask the Court to continue the 25 July 1 hearing, at least for a short period of time, to give us

1 more than just this brief period of time to get up to speed and 2 to enter into negotiations with the lenders, given that it's 3 likely that we won't see revised DIP terms until sometime late 4 tomorrow. And given the capital structure here and the history
5 here, we would like a little bit of ramp up time. Thank you, 6 Your Honor.

7 THE COURT: Okay. As to the substance of issues that 8 relate to the DIP, this really isn't the time for that to be 9 addressed. And there's no need for anyone to respond to what 10 may be preemptive merits arguments concerning the DIP. I view 11 this merely as a "we just got here and we need more time" 12 request. The problem with that is my schedule. Unfortunately, 13 I don't have a lot of time in the month of June -- excuse me,
14 and July. June is tight, July is tighter. And I also don't 15 know to what extent the debtor is going to take a position that 16 not having this heard on the 1st is a problem.

17 The only available time that I have within a 18 reasonable period after the 1st is during the week of July 6, 19 when I was planning not to be here at all. I'm going to 20 Chicago on the 7th for a judicial conference which is run by 21 the FJC, and my flight leaves on Tuesday. In light of the July 22 4th holiday, I was not planning to be here at all the week of 23 July 6th. So while I'm sensitive to your request, I think you 24 also need to be sensitive to my calendar which is unusually 25 jammed in the month of July, including, as Kirkland & Ellis

1 well knows, a fairly active trial that is scheduled to start on 2 the 20th of July in another Kirkland case.

3 So while I'm sensitive to your request for time, it
4 seems to me that it's premature to make the request. You'll be 5 getting whatever proposals there are to get as soon as they're 6 available to see them. To the extent that you have a problem
7 in fairly addressing the issues raised in those proposals, you 8 can renew your request for more time. And to the extent that 9 there is availability from a scheduling perspective, after the 10 week of the 6th, which would be during the week of the 13th, 11 that's possible. But candidly, I'm concerned from a case
12 administration perspective, in having a case of this magnitude 13 in limbo from the perspective of DIP financing for such an 14 extended period of time.

15 So that while I'm interested in providing the 16 committee and its counsel and other representatives as much 17 time as is reasonable to address issues raised by the DIP 18 proposal, which I haven't seen either, I'm also sensitive to 19 the need for the debtor to get the financing that it claims to 20 need so desperately as promptly as possible. So my suggestion 21 is we approach this pragmatically.

22 If you're able to deal with it and meet the July 1
23 date, that would be fine. If you're not, despite best efforts, 24 able to address the issues in the DIP and need more time, I 25 suggest that we have a telephone conference if you can't reach

1 agreement, for purposes of discussion and scheduling, 2 recognizing that there aren't a lot of available dates other 3 than the one you already have.

4 MS. LEVINE: We appreciate that. Thank you, Your 5 Honor.

6 THE COURT: Okay.

7 MR. HENES: Thank you, Your Honor.

8 MR. SUSSBERG: Good morning, Your Honor.

9 THE COURT: Good morning.

10 MR. SUSSBERG: Joshua Sussberg from Kirkland & Ellis
11 on behalf of the debtors. Your Honor, I wanted to make note 12 and remind the Court that at the first day hearing we had 13 introduced into evidence the declaration from Brandon Burgess
14 the CEO of the company. Exhibit O to that declaration included 15 a summary of many of the pleadings that we'll be presenting 16 today.

17 The first item on the agenda, and I'm working off the 18 amended agenda from last night, but it's relatively the same as 19 the prior agenda, is actually the motion for final approval of 20 the debtors' cash management system. As Ms. Levine noted, we 21 spoke with her office last night, and at the request of 22 committee counsel, they would like a brief adjournment of that 23 final order to review it and make sure it appropriately 24 addresses their concerns. We are amenable to that, so long as 25 Your Honor is okay including some time on the previously

1 scheduled date, July 1st at 2 p.m. to deal with the cash
2 management motion.

3 THE COURT: That's fine. I'm going to be here anyway.

4 MR. SUSSBERG: Great. Thank you, Your Honor. And 5 just another housekeeping note. The Moelis retention
6 application, which was also on the agenda for today, was noted 7 on the amended agenda that it would be adjourned to address
8 certain concerns that the U.S. Trustee as well as the committee
9 had raised. We intend to work through those, hopefully 10 consensually, over the course of the next week, and present
11 that to Your Honor on July 1st as well.

12 THE COURT: Fine. With that understanding, there will 13 be a hearing on July 1st at 2 o'clock regardless with happens 14 with regard to the DIP. Hopefully the DIP will be included on 15 that date as well. But so it's clear, it's perfectly available
16 time that's already been reserved for the Ion case, and I
17 expect to be here then.

18 MR. SUSSBERG: Excellent. Thank you, Your Honor. One 19 other note for the July 1st hearing. The debtors intend to 20 file a motion that we've been working hard on that dovetails
21 with the DIP, and that's a motion to approve omnibus procedures 22 to purchase programming and content, as Ms. Levine alluded to,
23 regarding discussions as between Ion and various of the content 24 providers. We think it will provide a streamlined fashion for 25 the debtors to enter into deals and provide people with notice

1 of those deals so as to maintain confidentiality and allow the 2 business to progress in an ordinary course.

3 THE COURT: Okay.

4 MR. SUSSBERG: And we hope to be filing that today or 5 tomorrow on shortened notice. And we appreciate Your Honor 6 entertaining that.

7 Your Honor, item number 2 on the agenda is the motion
8 seeking to determine adequate assurance of payment for future
9 utility services. This motion was filed on the petition date.
10 It's docket entry number 11. And as a result of the second day
11 hearing timing, we appreciate Your Honor having entered a 12 bridge order to extend us until today when we were able to 13 present this motion.

14 No formal objections have been received, although I
15 will say that many of my colleagues have been shepherding 16 utility providers who have been requesting additional adequate 17 assurance in accordance with our procedures, even in advance of 18 the hearing today. And we intend to address those in 19 accordance with the procedures, so long as Your Honor 20 entertains the order.

21 The order is very standard as to adequate assurance of 22 payment. We are proposing to provide a deposit equivalent to 23 two weeks' deposit for each of the utility providers over the 24 course of the twelve-month historical average. It amounts to 25 566,000 dollars. In addition, the procedures provide an

1 opportunity for utility providers who disagree with our two-2 week deposit and our ability to pay going forward, to request
3 additional adequate assurance. And so long as Your Honor 4 approves, the debtors will have authority to enter into 5 negotiations to resolve any one-off requests.

6 With that, Your Honor, we believe the establishment of 7 the procedures set forth in the motion provide adequate 8 assurance of utility service and our ability to pay for such 9 service. And to the extent the utility provider does not 10 object within thirty days from the Court's entry of an order, 11 they'll be deemed to have accepted our procedures.

12 THE COURT: Does anyone wish to be heard with respect
13 to this? Hearing no response, I approve it.

14 MR. SUSSBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. I just would 15 like to note for the record a couple of minor changes to the 16 proposed order.

17 THE COURT: Okay.

18 MR. SUSSBERG: And if it may please Your Honor, I can 19 hand up a black line.

20 THE COURT: Please. Thank you. You also rather 21 neatly also gave me the disk. So that was nice --

22 MR. SUSSBERG: I did. I didn't mean to --

23 THE COURT: -- that was nice double duty.

24 MR. SUSSBERG: -- I didn't want to get too far ahead 25 of myself.

1 THE COURT: Okay.

2 MR. SUSSBERG: Paragraph 3 of the order and paragraph 3 1 of the procedures that are attached to the order provide that 4 to the extent certain utilities request additional adequate 5 assurance in the form of deposits, and they ask for us to 6 provide those deposits directly to the utility provider, we've 7 included a proviso that allows us to withhold the portion that 8 would otherwise be in the adequate assurance deposit, so that 9 we're not double paying a deposit.

10 Paragraph 7 of the order and paragraph 5 of the 11 procedures, clarify that we have the greater of twenty days
12 from the receipt of an adequate assurance additional request
13 and thirty days from the entry of an order approving the motion 14 to resolve any additional requests.

15 And finally, paragraph 13 of the order carves out a 16 few utilities that have already contacted us. These are the 17 famous players in the utility world that have reached out to us 18 well in advance of the entry of the order, and we're working 19 with them on a one-off basis. With that, I'm happy to answer 20 any questions Your Honor may have.

21 THE COURT: I guess my only question relates to the 22 carve-out, paragraph 13, and what is contemplated as to this 23 class of excepted utilities?

24 MR. SUSSBERG: Generally speaking, I think it's 25 standard among the industry for these utilities to request a

1 two-month deposit to be delivered to them directly. And we 2 have successfully negotiated them down significantly. Without 3 divulging any confidences that may be subject to an agreement 4 after the Court enters an order, and subject to sharing those 5 agreements with the U.S. Trustee and the committee and any 6 other parties that are interested in reviewing them, I think 7 we've resolved them amicably.

8 THE COURT: Okay. Fine. This is approved with the 9 amendments to the order as noted.

10 MR. SUSSBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. Your Honor, 11 item number 3 on the agenda, another fairly straightforward 12 motion. It's the debtors' motion to maintain existing 13 insurance policies, each of which is listed on Exhibit B to the 14 motion. I will note for the record that we provided notice of 15 the motion to each of the insurance providers listed on exhibit 16 B.

17 Briefly, Your Honor, we maintain a comprehensive 18 insurance program, providing among other coverage: general 19 liability, auto liability, excess liability, earthquake-related 20 liability. We even maintain broadcasters' liability, as well 21 as D&O liability, fiduciary liability, crime, property and 22 miscellaneous liability.

23 THE COURT: I'd just ask what's covered by a 24 broadcasters' liability policy?

25 MR. SUSSBERG: It's funny you ask that, because I

1 figured you would ask the question.

2 THE COURT: Did you actually figure I would ask that 3 question?

4 MR. SUSSBERG: I actually did, and I read it very 5 carefully. It is covering any and all transmission of waves
6 via television or the Internet that may result in liability.
7 Very broad. I tried to dive into the details, but that really 8 was what it said.

9 THE COURT: We're talking Janet Jackson type 10 liability?

11 MR. SUSSBERG: I think that's right.

12 THE COURT: Okay.

13 MR. SUSSBERG: Your Honor, the aggregate amount of 14 premiums payable with respect to all these policies is 3.17 15 million dollars annually. We believe we are current on all our 16 coverage. And we're simply filing this motion out of an 17 abundance of caution, to the extent that a deductible or any 18 other payment may come due and owing that results from a 19 prepetition liability.

20 As noted in the motion, there are two insurance 21 brokers that help the company procure their insurance. They 22 are current on all prepetition payments, so nothing is due at 23 this time. To the extent Your Honor has any questions about 24 insurance cover, I'm happy to answer them now.

25 THE COURT: No. I want you to be covered fully,

1 including for broadcasters' liability.

2 MR. SUSSBERG: Your Honor --

3 THE COURT: It's approved.

4 MR. SUSSBERG: -- thank you. I can pass up an order 5 now or at the end.

6 THE COURT: Later.

7 MR. SUSSBERG: Okay. Item number 4 on the agenda,
8 Your Honor, is the application to employ Kirkland & Ellis, nunc 9 pro tunc to May 19th as counsel to the debtors. We filed the 10 application and the declaration of Mr. Henes in support of the 11 application on May 20th. No formal objections were received, 12 although we did receive feedback from the U.S. Trustee, and in 13 response thereto filed a supplemental declaration of Mr. Henes 14 yesterday afternoon.

15 Briefly, for the record, the supplemental declaration 16 addresses the U.S. Trustee's issues, and we've spoken with the 17 U.S. Trustee's Office about that declaration. And we'd note, 18 in the declaration, that to the extent any issue arises with 19 respect to a current or former client, in connection with these 20 Chapter 11 cases and as identified on Schedule 2 to the 21 original declaration, Kirkland & Ellis will seek, if they don't 22 already have, a waiver to pursue any adverse litigation or 23 matter against that party. And absent such waiver, we will 24 make sure that the company has in place appropriate conflicts 25 counsel.

1 In addition, the declaration clarified that with 2 respect to passive intermediary investments, which members of 3 the firm may have an interest in, we made clear that Kirkland &
4 Ellis policies mandate that individuals do not invest directly 5 in the securities of the debtors during the pendency of these 6 Chapter 11 cases. We also noted in the supplemental 7 declaration that we will formally screen certain individuals 8 that were otherwise identified in the original declaration, in 9 accordance with our formal screening procedures.

10 And finally, we noted that to the extent the rates for 11 any of the attorneys or paralegals working on this case rise 12 during the course of the case, we'll file a supplemental 13 declaration and serve that on parties that have filed a 2002
14 notice of appearance.

15 Your Honor, I think the application adequately sets 16 forth Kirkland's qualifications; the way in which we will be 17 compensated during the course of this case, which, in 18 accordance with the interim compensation procedures we'll 19 present later today; as well as the services that we will 20 provide to the debtors during the course of these cases. At 21 this point, I'm happy to answer any questions you may have on 22 Kirkland's retention application.

23 THE COURT: I don't have any questions. I'm just 24 going to ask if the U.S. Trustee is satisfied with the 25 supplemental declaration?

1 MS. GOLDEN: Yes, Your Honor. Counsel's been very 2 forthcoming, and it was mainly an issue of a little bit of 3 further disclosure and clarification. And Mr. Henes'
4 supplemental declaration is fine with us, and we have no
5 objection to your approving the retention of Kirkland & Ellis.

6 THE COURT: Fine. The Kirkland retention is approved.

7 MR. SUSSBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. Your Honor, 8 item number 5 on the agenda is the application to retain 9 Holland & Knight as corporate counsel under 327(e), nunc pro
10 tunc to the petition date. As noted in the application, 11 Holland & Knight has been serving as corporate counsel to the 12 debtors since 1994. So over the course of the past fifteen 13 years, Holland & Knight has gained invaluable institutional 14 knowledge about the inner workings of the debtors, the 15 corporate functions, and various legal matters that relate to 16 the debtors. So it's very important that Holland & Knight 17 plays a key role in these Chapter 11 cases with respect to 18 those corporate matters.

19 The application and the declaration of David Perry in 20 support of the application was filed on May 20, 2009. No 21 formal objections have been received. As was the case with the 22 Kirkland retention application, the U.S. Trustee expressed 23 certain concerns that they would like to see noted in a 24 supplemental declaration. And we have, in fact, had Holland &
25 Knight file a supplemental declaration to address two points.

1 The first point, similar to Kirkland & Ellis' 2 supplemental declaration, makes clear that to the extent any 3 current or former clients identified on Schedule 2 become an 4 interested party in these cases and adverse to the debtors, 5 Holland & Knight will attempt to procure a waiver, if they are 6 adverse to such parties, or otherwise make sure that the 7 company has appropriate counsel in place, whether it be 8 Kirkland & Ellis or conflicts counsel. And number two, the 9 U.S. Trustee asked us to make clear in the retention order that 10 Holland & Knight would be retained under Section 327(e) of the 11 Bankruptcy Code. And we have made those changes.

12 With that, Your Honor, I am happy to answer any 13 questions you may have on Holland & Knight's retention.

14 THE COURT: I have no questions. And I'm going to 15 give Ms. Golden an opportunity to confirm that she doesn't have 16 any issues either.

17 MS. GOLDEN: No, Your Honor. The supplemental 18 declaration is fine, and we have no objection to Holland & 19 Knight coming in.

20 THE COURT: I approve the Holland & Knight retention.

21 MR. SUSSBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. As mentioned, 22 we'll be bypassing the Moelis retention application. We'll 23 deal with that next week. Agenda item number 7 is the interim 24 compensation procedures motion. This was filed on June 2nd at 25 docket entry 53. No objections have been filed. Another

1 standard motion seeking an orderly, regular process for the 2 allowance of payment of compensation for professional services
3 rendered, reimbursement of expenses incurred by professionals 4 specifically retained in these cases. I also will note that 5 it's consistent with the standing order in this jurisdiction 6 with respect to compensation procedures. I'm happy to walk the 7 Court through the procedures.

8 THE COURT: That won't be necessary. I'm very 9 familiar with the order. I do want to ask counsel proposed for 10 the creditors' committee if Lowenstein Sandler has had a chance 11 to review this and has any issues?

12 MS. LEVINE: We don't, Your Honor. We've read the 13 pleadings and spoke with counsel. And the only two issues we 14 had related to cash management and the Moelis retention.

15 THE COURT: Okay. Fine.

16 MR. SUSSBERG: I will note, Your Honor, that we'll 17 make a clarification for two things in the order. One, we'll 18 add Lowenstein Sandler specifically, now that they've been 19 officially appointed as counsel to the committee.

20 THE COURT: Well, they haven't been officially 21 retained, but we'll assume that that's simply a matter of time.

22 MR. SUSSBERG: Very well. And also, at the request of 23 Ms. Cohen, we will include the agents with respect to notice of 24 interim applications -- not the monthly, but interim
25 applications to the agents under the first and second priority

1 secured indentures.

2 THE COURT: All right. It's approved as modified.

3 MR. SUSSBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. Your Honor,
4 item number 8 on the agenda is the motion to retain ordinary 5 course professionals and service providers. This was filed on 6 June 2nd at docket entry 54. No formal objections have been 7 received, although we have worked closely with Ms. Golden and 8 made certain changes at the request of her office.

9 Very briefly, we're seeking authorization, as is 10 standard in large Chapter 11 cases, to employ certain attorneys 11 and service providers utilized in the ordinary course, that are 12 providing service to the debtors for several years, if not 13 months, in the past, that are not necessarily related to these 14 Chapter 11 cases but nonetheless very important to day-to-day 15 business operations of the company.

16 Service providers are very broad. It includes public 17 relations, business consultants, financial advisors and the 18 like. At Ms. Golden's request, we've limited ordinary course 19 professionals to attorneys, specifically. So the exhibit to 20 the motion only lists those attorneys that will be considered 21 ordinary course professionals.

22 Briefly as to the changes in the proposed order. At 23 the request of the U.S. Trustee, we have eliminated the three-24 month rolling cap which had previously been included in the 25 application, such that it said ordinary course professionals

1 could incur fees and expenses of up to 50,000 dollars on a 2 three-month rolling basis, so it would carry over month to 3 month. We've eliminated that and simply said that it's 50,000
4 dollars per month, at the U.S. Trustee's request. We have,
5 however, carved out one specific professional, and that is Dow 6 Lohnes PLLC, which is regulatory counsel for the debtors. In 7 an agreement with the U.S. Trustee, the order will provide that 8 Dow Lohnes may incur fees and expenses of up to 100,000 dollars 9 per month, not on a rolling basis.

10 The order itself notes that service providers will 11 continue to be paid in the ordinary course of business. With 12 that, I'm happy to answer any questions Your Honor may have.

13 THE COURT: I have no questions. It's approved.

14 MR. SUSSBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. Your Honor, 15 item number 9 on the agenda is the first omnibus motion of the 16 debtors to reject certain contracts and lease agreements. This 17 motion was filed on June 8th at docket entry 64. No objections 18 have been filed. The affidavit of service that notes that each 19 of the counterparties to the proposed rejected contracts were 20 served with the motion is at docket entry number 70.

21 Your Honor, briefly, before the petition date, the 22 debtors began the process of reviewing and analyzed their 23 contract and lease obligations in an effort to determine which 24 of those obligations could be shed in such that they provide 25 additional obligations to the debtors going forward, that would

1 be a drain on estate resources. To date, the debtors have 2 identified thirty agreements, each of which are listed on 3 Exhibit B to the motion. These carry ongoing obligations that, 4 as I mentioned, would constitute an unnecessary drain.

5 The agreements can generally be described in four 6 buckets: There are building lease agreements, where, as 7 expected, the debtors lease certain buildings and office space
8 for the operation of their business; there are tower attachment
9 agreements, pursuant to which the debtors lease broadcasting 10 towers and nearby buildings that house antennas. And I will 11 note, that with respect to the agreements listed on the exhibit 12 attached to the motion, several of these towers are analog 13 towers. And as I think most people are well aware at this 14 point, on June 12th there was a nationwide conversion to 15 digital. So the analog towers are no longer necessary or 16 appropriate for the debtors' ongoing business. And as a 17 result, the debtors determined that they should reject these 18 agreements, and not necessarily incur costs associated with 19 such agreements.

20 And in addition, the debtors have included fiber
21 services agreements, which receive the right to transmit 22 television broadcast signals over fiber optic transmission 23 lines; and microwave licenses, which are used by the debtors to 24 locate microwave dishes on a particular parcel of property for 25 the purpose of relaying microwave signals. I don't profess to 1 be an expert on fiber optic or microwave signals, but my 2 understanding from the company after reviewing these 3 agreements, is they've since invested and entered into 4 agreements that contemplate newer technology, such that these 5 older agreements are no longer applicable or necessary to 6 business operations. And as a result, they've made their way 7 onto the rejection schedule.

8 Your Honor, consistent with Section 365 of the 9 Bankruptcy Code, we believe that our business judgment is 10 satisfied, after having reviewed these agreements and 11 considering the ongoing costs and burdens to the company in 12 maintaining these agreements. And as a result, we submit that 13 rejecting the agreements is appropriate and a reflection of the 14 company's sound business judgment. I'm happy to answer any 15 specific questions you may have at this time.

16 THE COURT: I have no specific questions about this, 17 and don't intend at this point to substitute my business 18 judgment for that of the debtor. But I am interested in 19 knowing whether the committee, given its relatively short time 20 as a fully constituted body of creditors in the case, has any 21 view with respect to this pending motion? Since it's not one 22 of the ones that the committee has reserved on, I'm assuming 23 that there are no issues, but I just want to double check.

24 MS. LEVINE: Your Honor, candidly, we haven't reviewed 25 each of the leases in detail with a financial advisor. We

1 don't have one yet. But in looking at the buckets, 2 consolidating the space, getting rid of analog and dealing with 3 contracts that, as we understand it, do propose outdated data, 4 our goal is to understand the universe of claims sooner rather 5 than later, and to have that information available to us as we 6 go forward in the case. So we made a decision, perhaps not 7 with the fullest of information we might otherwise have, that 8 we're taking no position on this motion.

9 THE COURT: Okay. The committee takes no position.
10 We rely upon the debtors' business judgment in running its 11 business, especially as it relates to certain items that I
12 don't even understand, which involves the outmoded
13 technologies. And the motion is approved.

14 MR. SUSSBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. And we 15 certainly will spend time with the committee and its 16 professionals bringing them up to speed on these various 17 agreements, so that they can certainly understand our business 18 judgment.

19 THE COURT: Fine.

20 MR. SUSSBERG: Your Honor, agenda item number 10 is 21 the motion to extend the deadline to file schedules and 22 statements. And I first and foremost would like to thank Your 23 Honor for entering the ex parte bridge order. With the 24 commotion related to the DIP financing and the various efforts 25 of the company professionals to move that process along, the

1 schedules got held up, to say the least. With 117 debtor 2 entities and various claims and items to include in those 3 schedules, it was ambitious to try to get it done in fifteen 4 days, and we unfortunately weren't able to do that.

5 But we have requested a thirty-day extension, which 6 will take us out to the end of next week. And I believe that 7 we will be in a position to file the schedules and statements 8 early next week and get that behind us.

9 THE COURT: Good. I'm prepared to approve this. Does 10 the U.S. Trustee or any other party have a problem?

11 MS. GOLDEN: No, Your Honor.

12 THE COURT: It's approved.

13 MR. SUSSBERG: Thank you, Your Honor. The last item
14 on the agenda is listed under the adjourned matters. And Mr.
15 Henes gave you the update earlier today regarding the status of 16 the DIP. But as a housekeeping matter, we would like to 17 present Your Honor with a simple bridge order that extends the 18 current financing, which was to terminate today, through July 19 1st, the next hearing date. There were a couple of comments 20 that were made by the agent to the proposed order. They are 21 noncontroversial. We've incorporated those comments, but 22 unfortunately, we don't have a clean version of the order down 23 at court. So if Your Honor would not mind, we would propose to 24 send that down later today?

25 THE COURT: You can submit that later today. I am

1 interested in knowing, if you can provide me with a status
2 report as to where you are with respect to the DIP financing?
3 How much has been drawn down? Are you in any jeopardy other 4 than the fact that we're just talking about some technical 5 extensions of time in respect of being able to meet
6 obligations? In other words, is what you have today sufficient 7 to get you to next week?

8 MR. SUSSBERG: Your Honor the 25 million was in the 9 form of a term loan, so it's not on a revolving basis. So the 10 company did draw down the 25 million, net of fees, associated 11 with the financing. I think from the company's standpoint, 12 it's extremely important to move forward as quickly as 13 possible, because I think Your Honor mentioned before, being 14 limbo is of no use out there in the world where we're 15 negotiating content and programming deals. And it simply 16 provides an added layer of insulation, if you will, to the 17 content providers, who will simply say to you, well maybe we'll 18 wait another week to see if your situation clarifies.

19 And deals are being done as we speak, especially with 20 the fall programming coming up so soon. And I think it's very 21 clear from the company's standpoint, that moving forward on an 22 expeditious basis is very, very important to business 23 operations.

24 THE COURT: I understand that. I don't dispute that.
25 I just wanted to know whether or not there's money left in the 1 bank?

2 MR. SUSSBERG: We certainly do have money on hand to 3 operate the business.

4 THE COURT: Fine. And I assume that the money that 5 you have in the bank is sufficient to get you to next week at 6 least?

7 MR. SUSSBERG: That is fair to say. Yes, Your Honor.

8 THE COURT: Good. All right. Is there anything more 9 for today?

10 MR. HENES: No, Your Honor.

11 THE COURT: I'll see you on July 1. We're adjourned.
